I am excited, elated and honored to write this note to inaugurate the International Journal of Outcome-Based Education of Mapúa University. I believe, as do my colleagues in the administration of the Journal and of Mapua University, that there should be a platform by which OBE as a philosophy can be propagated to contribute in the strengthening of education.

What this journal hopes to accomplish as such a platform is to serve as a repository of the latest thought and practice in OBE education, to become a venue for scholarly discourse, and to educate the public about OBE.

In this inaugural edition, we bring you invited papers from leading experts on OBE. Among them is Dr. William Spady, considered the father of OBE. With these papers, we wish to set the tone for the lively discourse on OBE that we hope to kindle and keep alive.

We also hope that through the IJOBE we will share with you the vision of Mapúa University for a genuine outcome-based education in the Philippines and elsewhere

I enjoin you to contribute to this journal and the future of education!
